

Homework

This is your writing homework. Once again, here are six writing homework activities for you to choose from to complete. But... it's the spring term now, so expectations are HIGHER than before. Will you impress Mr Cornish? Each week you must choose one written task, handing your completed work in by each Thursday. What task will you choose first? You only need to complete five of the tasks - you can leave the one you most despise!

Struggling to think of a structure? Check out the cheat sheets on the school website.

Task 1: Lego Batman (or any creation toy) Have you seen the Lego Batman movie? If not, no worries. Write a list of instructions to build the ultimate Lego creation. It could be a bat-mobile or a bat-cave. You could build it and take a photograph!	Task 2: Scooters (or similar). Would you like your own scooter? Or skateboard? Or something similar? Write a persuasive speech to passionately tell your parents you need this item! You could record yourself and email it to the school office.
Task 3: Plastic Fantastic Plastics are polluting our oceans. It's never been worse! It's on the news every day. Record or write a report to share what you discover through research.	Task 4: Newspaper Article Some things are so annoying! What annoys you? No, you can't write about me! Choose a topic and write a passionate newspaper article to share your opinion about your chosen topic.
Task 5: Happiness What is happiness? How can you improve your happiness? What makes you happy? Create a poster to tell the world!	Task 6: Comedy Do you know any good jokes? Write a stand-up comedy show, telling anecdotal stories or your best jokes. Ask your family for their ideas. If you'd like, stand up and share it in class!

Success Criteria:

- You must produce one side of A4 (approximately) or more.
- You must think about your presentation, your spelling, your grammar and your paragraphing.
- You might produce a plan before you write your text.
- You might word process your text, print it off, and add it to your homework book.
- You can email your work to Mr Cornish: antony.cornish@celticcross.education if you'd like it to be printed at school.
